5. Live musical performances are a regular daily occurrence in Kensington Market – I find this;

| | | Response Percent | Response Count |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------|----------------|
| A) Part of the markets charm that should be encouraged and/or left alone |  | 56.0% | 154 |
| B) Enjoyable but sometimes intrusive and/or frustratingly loud |  | 40.7% | 112 |
| C) Irritating – we need some rules |  | 8.4% | 23 |
| | Other (please specify) | | 24 |
| | | answered question | 275 |
| | | skipped question | 31 |

6. Since musicians/buskers tend to just turn up uninvited and start playing, Kensington Market should have some community music guidelines. I support;

| | | Response Percent | Response Count |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------|----------------|
| A) Letting musicians do their thing as long as no one complains |  | 30.9% | 85 |
| B) Adopting an 'Acoustic Only' neighbourhood guideline for visiting musicians |  | 44.7% | 123 |
| C) Allowing some amplification but only if it does not exceed the city's maximum 85 decibel level |  | 33.8% | 93 |
| | Other (please specify) | | 27 |
| | answered question | | 275 |
| | skipped question | | 31 |

7. Since the name 'Pedestrian Sundays in Kensington Market' is associated with a festival atmosphere, we need a new name for more frequent, non-festival, pedestrian priority zones. I suggest;
